

The Keelboat Coach course is for the competent Keelboat, Multihull or Trailer sailor who wishes to pass their knowledge and skills onto new sailors. Whether it be a learning curve to help you in your own sailing, or you want to start running a sailing school from your yacht, this is the course for you with three attainable levels.

On completion of the Yachting New Zealand Keelboat Coach course, a coach will be able to...

- Manage risks and be aware of safety issues related to sailing a Keelboat
- Be aware of the importance of experience and have commitment to furthering one's experience
- Be committed and have the ability to deliver Yachting New Zealand's Keelboat scheme at Level 1, 2, and/or 3 (dependent on the attainment level achieved)
- Show competence in practical aspects of sailing a keelboat

How long does it take?

Typically the Keelboat Coach Course totals around 20 hours. Typically the course is run over two days sailing, and one evening.

Prerequisites required

- Applicants must be competent at skippering a keelboat
- 16 years of age (inclusive)
- Under 18 years of age will require pre-approval from Yachting New Zealand

Modules Covered

Teaching method in large boats	Preparation and presentation of a session	Safety
Instructional techniques afloat and ashore	Yachting New Zealand Keelboat programme structure	Basic Course Running and Organisation

Assessment and Fees

You will be assessed by the facilitator throughout the course on different aspects, and they will grade you as to which level of the Yachting New Zealand Keelboat scheme you will be able to coach. The facilitator will guide you through what they are looking for on the course.

The course cost is $180. If you register online for a course, you will be directed through the process. Payment is required before the course commences and before your certificate is sent out to you.